

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A carbonaceous nanotube has a hollow part with an inner diameter of, at most, 5nm, and a thickness part of, at most, 10nm. The thickness part is formed of carbon atoms and hydrogen atoms, optionally containing at least one transition metal atom. Such a carbonaceous nanotube has excellent conductivity and excellent wettability.

5

09615104-074300